State OKs Plans for New County Jail

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON

Final approval of the plans for Ulster County's new jail has been received from the State Department of Correction. The county will go out for bids on the 188-inmate facility within the next two or three weeks, according to Clifford W. Snyder, (R-Dist. 1) chairman of the Sheriff's Committee.

Snyder detailed plans for the 50,000 square feet jail to be located on Golden Hill at an executive meeting of the County Legislature Thursday night.

The Saugerties legislator said that "the study for the new facility was not hastily thrown together. It covered a period of three years and many long committee meetings." In addition to his own committee, the Building and Sites Committee and the Social Services Committee also were involved on several occasions.

Snyder also pointed to the extreme need for a new jail, recalling that Assemblyman Bertram L. Podell, chairman of the Joint Legislature Committee on Penal Institutions, described the Ulster County Jail a number of years ago as a "house of horrors."

Snyder said the present facility has been condemned in recent years by the Department of Correction which has indicated that if at anytime the county discontinued its program to provide new facilities, a show cause order would be filed.

The original resolution calling for a study by the Sheriff's Committee of the feasibility of building a new jail was sponsored by the present County Legislative Chairman Peter J. Savago in 1966 while a member of the old Board of Supervisors.

The new 1968 legislature continued the study which showed that the original jail was built in 1818 with an addition added in 1901.

The present jail accommodates 44 males and 10 females. Last year the average daily inmate population was 77 with a daily high of 117.

"The overcrowding resulted in many problems," Snyder explained. "When accomodations for inmates were lacking, the overflow of prisoners were sent, by agreement, to the Orange County Jail. This meant additional personnel to transport the prisoners, attorneys complaining of the inconvenience of visiting their clients and, there was the constant threat of Orange County Jail becoming overcrowded and not being able to house Ulster inmates.

"This threat very quickly became a reality. We are no longer able to use the facilities of the Orange County Jail . . ."

Snyder said that after visits to other new jail facilities in Saratoga and Warren Counties, and after numerous meetings in Albany and Kingston, final approval of the present plan, designed by Albert Milliken, Kingston architect, was given last Monday by the Department of Correction

Preliminary prints of the proposed jail had been created, based on statistics provided by the Department of Correction, the Sheriff's Department and on the population growth of Ulster County.

Plans for the brick-faced concrete block building to be constructed were outlined to the legislators during the executive session by Robert Milliken. In the three-story building, which is T-shaped, the concrete block in most rooms will be left exposed and painted.

Concrete floors, treated with a hardening agent will be used in the majority of areas, including such spaces as cell blocks, dormitories, civil detention, storage rooms and mechanical equipment.

Terrazzo will be used in the visitor's lobby, visiting space, in the corridors in the central core on the first floor and in the corridor of the wing housing the Sheriff's Department.

Vinyl asbestos, ceramic and quarry tile will be used in other areas.

Kingston Water District will supply water to the site with the Kingston storm system taking care of sanitary and storm drainings. The building will be heated electrically with administration office spaces air conditioned.

Snyder concluded by thanking the members of his committee saying, "Without their full cooperation the success of the study, an up-to-date efficient jail facility for Ulster County, would not have been possible."

Those serving on his committee include: Louis Bevier (R-Dist. 8), Ernest John Gardner (R-Dist. 11), S. Robert Kelder (R-Dist. 2), Melvin Mones (R-City), Gerald P. Gorman (D-City), Roger Mabie (D-Dist. 7) and William Edelmuth (D-City). Former Legislators Irving Maurer (R-Dist. 7) and Frederick Pizzuto (R-Dist. 9).

Economy's Strong Rebound Rules Out a Tax Slash

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House has ruled out calling for immediate tax cuts following a strong rebound in the nation's economy during the first three months of the year.

Although the recovery was not as great as the Nixon administration had hoped, White House economic advisor George P. Shultz said it shuts the door to any tax-relief proposals in the immediate future.

"As of now, we're on a good course and we hope to stay on that course," Shultz told newsmen Thursday. "There is no reason to make any shift in policy."

Shultz said the first-quarter advance of $28.5 billion in gross national product, output of the nation's goods and services, was a "little less than expected, but larger than what the pessimists thought.

"We do have expansion under way—a good solid expansion," he said.

Nixon administration officials have been considering the possibility of further tax relief to boost the sluggish economy. And Shultz said he is not ruling out that possibility for the entire year.

The White House had hoped for a first-quarter GNP growth of $30 billion to $35 billion as an indicator of vigorous expansion and to achieve its twin goals of cutting inflation and unemployment.

The GNP figures showed, however, that inflation continued its high level, galloping along at 5.2 per cent during the quarter but down from the upward-revised 5.9 per cent during the last three months of 1970.

Nixon has pledged to cut the inflation rate to 3 per cent and unemployment from the present 6 per cent to 4.5 per cent by mid-1972.

To do that, the administration figures, GNP will have to average $1.065 trillion for all of 1971. If statistics released Thursday are indicative, output will fall short of that goal.

The gain brought GNP to $1.018 trillion at a seasonally adjusted annual rate, a 12-per-cent increase measured by current prices and the biggest single-quarter percentage rise in more than 12 years.

But real GNP output figured in terms of noninflated dollars, grew by 6.5 per cent, sharpest since the second quarter of 1968.

In sheer dollar volume, the $28.5-billion advance was largest on record, mainly because of the rate of inflation.

The increase was possible primarily because auto production snapped back strongly from last fall's General Motors strike and accounted for two-thirds of the GNP advance. Outside of the automobile sector, the economy still suffered from considerable slack during the period.

Uptown Traffic Flows Freely

KINGSTON

A parking ban in the Stockade area of the Uptown Kingston business district went into effect officially at 7 a.m. today.

The order went out from Mayor Francis R. Koenig who imposed the measure on a 30-day trial basis in hopes of alleviating traffic tieups in the area which he said stem mainly from double parking.

The effect of the ban, even before it became official today, was nevertheless felt in the uptown area Thursday when drivers found meters already carrying the "no parking" signs.

The mayor said that consequently there were no tie-ups on North Front Street where parking is banned on the northside and he said traffic flowed freely on Fair Street where parking spaces have been eliminated on the southwest side.

Koenig said the new ruling would be strictly enforced but police will allow deliveries to stores and the picking up and discharging of passengers. The standard fine for parking in a restricted area is $2.

In addition to the parking ban, the city also has installed a new stop sign on John Street at the corner of Fair Street making the intersection a four-way stop. Koenig said it was done because "people stop there any way, and it would mean an even better distribution of traffic."

Eliminated parking spaces under the new ban include the following:

The southwest side of Fair Street, from North Front Street to Pearl Street; on the north side of North Front Street from the parking garage to the municipal parking lot and the elimination of some parking spaces on the north side of John Street between Wall and Crown Streets. Parking along Wall and Crown Streets will not be prohibited.

Despite the fact that the Uptown Businessmen's Association unanimously endorsed the proposals for the 30-day trial period, some uptown merchants have expressed great unhappiness.

One of the most vocal was Robert Schneller of Schneller Meats on John Street who said he collected signatures of all merchants on John Street and almost all on North Front Street Thursday protesting the parking ban.

Schneller said he plans to meet with the mayor today to try and persuade him to rescind the order. He said that "Thursday was the slowest Thursday in Uptown Kingston in a couple of years with the exception of snow days."

It is our position," Schneller said, that "every single parking space is needed to preserve Uptown Kingston. The traffic is not as bad as purported with the exception of pre-holidays, when even Kingston Plaza is jammed."

Admitting that employe parking poses a problem in the area, Schneller suggested better policing.

The Uptown Businessmen's Association approved Koenig's plan at a meeting more than two weeks ago but members did not formally inform the mayor until Thursday.

If the parking ban is judged a success, it is expected that the traffic committee will recommend to the Common Council that it be adopted on a permanent basis. The Traffic Committee, under Alderman Peter Mancuso (D-12th Ward) has already pledged complete support for the parking ban.

Help Before the Tax Axe Falls

Internal Revenue Agent Edmund A. Steere Jr. (L) gives Mr. and Mrs. Peter Boyd some last minute advice on their income tax return. Thursday was the deadline for filing and the local IRS office had lots of customers who waited to the bitter end to carry out the annual headache. This year's rush was on a par with previous years with the big day being April 14, not the 15th. (Freeman photo by Kruh)

County Fire Danger Critical With 50 Blazes Since Easter

By ALBERT J. CAWEIN

KINGSTON

The State Department of Environmental Conservation has declared a Class 4 High Fire Danger for Ulster County as strong winds whip brush fires to high intensity with no precipitation in sight.

Fire authorities throughout the county have recorded more than 50 brush and grass fires including several in the City of Kingston since Easter Sunday.

Victor Glider, director of the department's Division of Lands and Forests, said the combination of warm temperatures and strong breezes produces a drying effect that increases the potential for forest and brush fires during this time of year. During the 1970 spring season, 476 forest and brush fires were reported.

The department is issuing daily fire danger reports. The No. 4 classification placed on Ulster County is described as follows: Fires start easily from all causes. Immediately after ignition, fire spreads rapidly and increases quickly in intensity. The color code for Class 3 is orange. The highest rating is Class 5 with a color code red.

When this condition persists the state usually closes all forests suspending most fishing and other outdoor sports activities, hikes through the woods and picnicking.

Today's weather forecast is for cloudy skies and snow flurries with temperatures in the 50's.

Duncan Wilson, deputy county fire coordinator, whose area of responsibility is north and west of Kingston, observed it was becoming very serious. He said most of the brush and grass fires are due to carelessness in outdoor refuse burning.

He noted that normally refuse burning in an outdoor barrel or metal container causes no concern. However, with the grass dry and leaves and pine needles like tinder, a spark from a burning barrel ignites the leaves or grass and starts the brush burning.

He said no one is permitted to burn off dry grass or brush without a burning permit from the County Health Department in Kingston. And then they must use precautions, have a hose ready, brooms and shovels in case it gets out of hand. He suggested that a screen with openings no more than one-quarter inch should be placed on top of a burning can.

Those living within the Catskill State Park Blue Line must have a Conservation Department burning permit. Other causes of brush fires are the careless tossing of lighted cigarettes out of car windows.

Wilson said residents should use common sense. He urged the cooperation of the public to use extreme care during this dry season. He noted that so far the county has been fortunate in that no buildings have been involved and no forests have been ignited.

Volunteer fire companies throughout the county are on the alert and many have men stationed at the firehouses to be ready for immediate response.

Deputy Fire Coordinator Gregston Greer, who is responsible for most of the southern portion of the county also said earlier that many of the fires are caused by carelessness in the use of refuse containers.

He noted the danger in a community where there may be a house fire at the same time when the fire equipment is in another portion of the district fighting a brush fire. The volume of fire calls also increases the possibility of firemen becoming injured when responding to a brush fire.

Various fire company officials throughout the county have urged the residents in their districts to refrain from burning-off fields and to use extreme caution in burning refuse in barrels.

One fire chief said there is also the human factors involved. When a volunteer has responded to three or four brush fires in quick succession he sometimes fails to respond causing a shortage of manpower in the event of a house or building fire.

Thursday Mutual Aid Headquarters in Kingston reported seven more brush fires, four in the Highland area during a period from 12:09 to 11:03 p.m. last night.

In addition to the Highland fires, brush fires were reported in Saxton, Shawangunk Valley and Modena.

Other alarms included car fires in West Hurley, and two in Marlboro and there was a chimney fire in Ellenville.

There were eight brush or grass fires reported on Wednesday by Mutual Aid. Volunteer fire companies responded in Plattekill, Highland, Wallkill, Ellenville, Big Indian, High Falls, Napanoch and Tillson. In addition there was a fire at the dump in New Paltz.

Two Cases Against URA Postponed

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON

Two court cases against the Kingston Urban Renewal Agency, one heard in Albany, the other in New York City, were postponed on Thursday for action at a later date, KURA director James G. Connors told The Freeman today.

The case in New York City before Justice Charles M. Metzner of the U.S. District Court, involving a relocation dispute between the agency and William Van Kleeck, a Hurley Avenue used car lot owner, was put off until April 27.

The federal government, which was named in the suit, along with the city of Kingston and the urban renewal agency, will send a relocation expert to Kingston who will attempt to "work out an agreement between Van Kleeck and the agency within the framework of urban renewal regulations," according to an agency spokesman.

Van Kleeck was ordered evicted from his land in Ulster County Court after refusing the agency's offer of $18,500 for his property.

Van Kleeck has claimed that the agency has refused to allow him to relocate his business in the uptown project and that it is discriminating against his business. The agency has countered by stating that the uptown plans do not provide for a used car lot.

Harry Gold, a Wall Street attorney, is representing the agency in the case.

The other case is with the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Company involving the payment for the installation of underground power lines in the downtown project.

The agency had a motion to reopen the case granted by the State Court of Appeals on Thursday. The case will be heard by the high court on the week of May 24th.

That case had been previously heard in December of 1968 in the Appellate Court which voted 3-2 in favor of the utility. The agency appealed the case to the Court of Appeals shortly after but the case was dismissed two years later for failure by the agency to prosecute.

John Davison, an Albany attorney, represents the agency in the case, while Walter Bossert, a New York City attorney, represents Central Hudson.

Involved is some $90,000, the difference between the cost of installing underground lines for the Rondout Gardens apartment complex in Broadway East at a cost of $90,000, versus the cost of overhead lines at a cost of $9,000. The Appellate Court, in ruling in favor of the utility in 1968, ordered the agency to pay some $84,000 plus costs to the utility for the underground lines. That settlement is compounded by three per cent interest over the last two and a half years.

$1.30 Tax Hike in Paltz Budget

NEW PALTZ

The New Paltz Village Board held a public hearing on the proposed 1971-1972 village budget (June 1-May 31) Thursday night which called for a $1.30 increase per thousand in the tax rate. The total taxable amount to be raised is $174,475.

The board also voted to hire a part-time village police justice at a salary of $4,000 per year. The position will be filled by board appointment until the next general village election in March when the position will be put on the ballot.

The board also voted to hire a combination zoning inspector and building inspector at $8,000 a year along with an assistant superintendent of public works, also at $8,000 a year.

The public works department will be involved in three major projects this fiscal year; including the extension of Fulton Road to North Chestnut Street; the building of a connection road (with the town, between Route 32, south, and South Putt Corners Road; and a proposal to plow the sidewalks along the main routes of the village this winter. The plowing program is described as experimental and may be expanded if proved successful on a limited basis.

It was also announced that village attorney, Dominick Porto, is involved in negotiations with the police department for new contracts for the coming year.

The village board meets again in regular session on April 26.

Group-Practice Medical Setup Proposed on N.Y. Health-Care

NEW YORK (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller has proposed the establishment of group-practice medical corporations as a means of reforming health-care delivery in the state.

Under a plan announced Thursday and to be submitted to the legislature next week, doctors would be given tax breaks and low-cost loans as incentives to join the nonprofit corporations.

State residents would be entitled to comprehensive medical services by buying memberships in a local corporation. The setting and collecting of membership fees would likely be performed by Blue Cross or other health insurance companies.

Rockefeller, in a talk to members of his Social Services Steering Committee, indicated he did not intend to eliminate the single, fee-for-service system but only to create an alternative to it.

"Group practice allows the doctor to work in the most modern medical setting," he said. "It allows him to concentrate not only on healing, but on preventing sickness—which is the most practical way to cut down our spiraling medical costs."

Rockefeller's talk followed issuance by the committee of a report blasting health care delivery and administration in the state and country.

Among the report's recommendations was a proposal that no new federal funds be appropriated for health care unless incentives are provided to make delivery more efficient. Doctors, it said, must be encouraged to settle "where the need is, rather than where the money is."

The report said there had been "a tremendous waste of scarce resources and funds," and insisted "the financial barrier to adequate health care, which still exists for a substantial minority of Americans, must be removed. ..."

Saugerties $381,110 Looks OK

SAUGERTIES

The Saugerties Village preliminary budget totaling $381,110 apparently is acceptable to the taxpayers as no one appeared before the Village Board at Thursday night's public hearing.

However, Village Clerk James V. Gage said that the Village Board will review the figures between now and next Tuesday, the deadline for adoption. No date has been set for the Village Board meeting for adoption, he said.

The proposed budget for the fiscal year starting June 1, reflects a tax rate of $27.80, an increase of $4.80 per $1,000 of assessed valuation. Any changes made by the Village Board in the interim will alter this figure.

The new figure is $72,500 higher than the current budget. The increases are as follows: Staff expenses $26,000, an increase of $3,000; public safety, $100,000, a hike of $20,000; streets and sanitation, $130,000, an increase of $5,000; general fund, $64,000, up $20,000 and debt redemption, $40,000, an increase of $25,000.

Estimated revenues total $77,950, about the same as last year. This leaves $303,160, or $72,515 more to be raised by taxation. The rate will be figured on an assessed valuation of $10,601,5447, an increase of $101,547.

Digs, Designations and Parks Topics for the Landmarks Group

By JEAN F. DOLAN

KINGSTON

Archeological excavations historic designations and mini-parks were under discussion at the regular meeting of the Kingston Historic Landmarks Commission Thursday night.

No action was taken on designation of five properties up for designation at Historic Landmarks. Four uptown and one downtown site have been under consideration as landmarks and a public hearing was held last month. To date, the commission has specified 35 buildings as Kingston Landmarks. It is hoped that plaques may be affixed at all of these sites, completing a project started by Friends of Historic Kingston.

Addidtional excavations are planned in the Old Stockade area on Green Street and on Clinton Avenue this spring. Professor Bert Salwen will conduct the digs in search of more Stockade evidence. Paul Huey, New York State Historic Trust Archeologist who conduct the first excavation at the Frog Alley site, is expected to join in the spring digs this year.

Fred Johnston, chairman of the Landmarks Commission, reported that plans are completed for a mini-park to be established in front of the parking garage uptown.

Those attending the commission meeting at the city courtroom were Edwin Ford, president of Friends of Historic Kingston; Dr. Charles Gaston, Harry Rigby Jr., Kathryn Heavey, Mrs. Walter Dornaruma and Johnston.

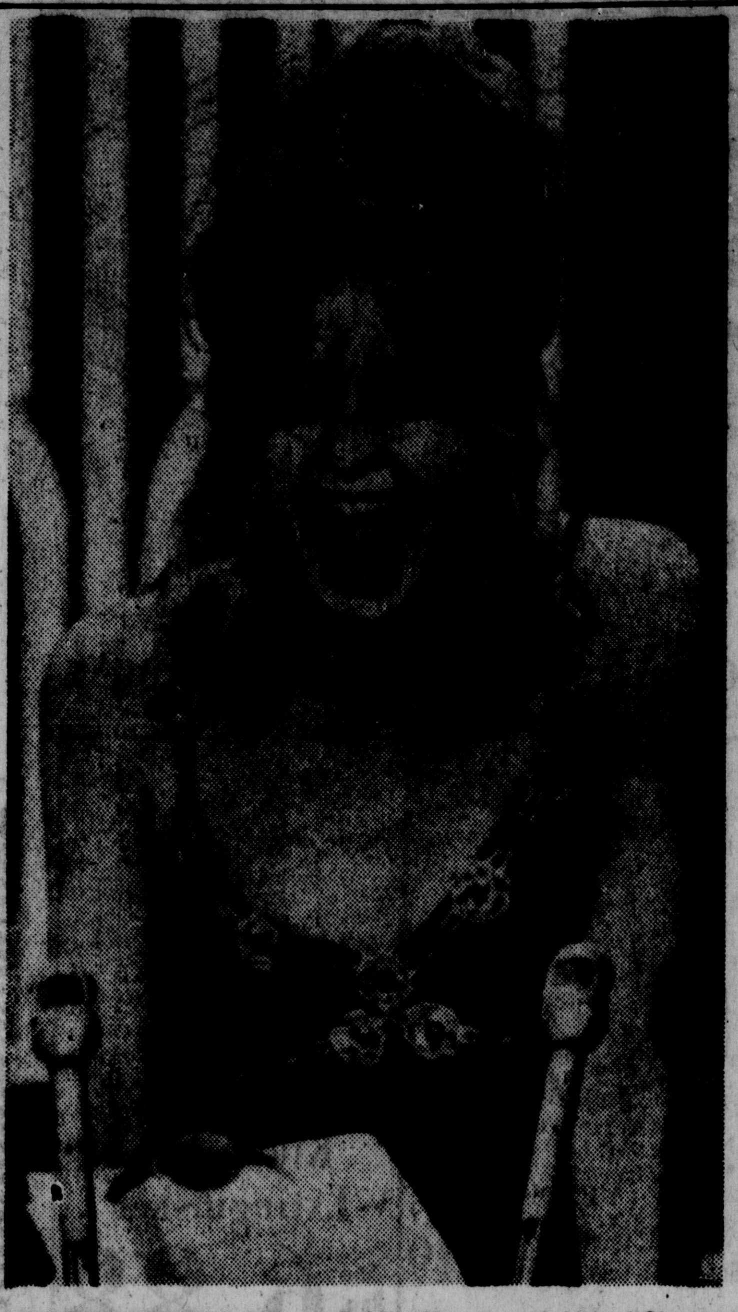
It Was Generally Patton Night All Around



GOLDIE BREAKS UP — Goldie Hawn exclaim's "Oh my God! It's George C. Scott!" as she announces the winner of the Best Actor Oscar at the Academy Awards. Scott has refused to accept the Oscar and was not present at the awards. The producer of "Patton," Frank McCarthy, accepted the Oscar for Scott. Patton took eight Oscars. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—George C. Scott, who had shunned the glittering Oscar awards as "two hours of a meat parade," won filmland's greatest honor Thursday night and led his picture, "Patton," to eight Oscars in the 43rd annual Academy Awards presentations.

A spokesman for Scott said the gold statuette which the actor said he would not accept would be sent to the George S. Patton Jr. Memorial Museum at Ft. Knox, Ky.

Scott was named best actor for his portrayal of the tough-talking Army general and "Patton" was named best film. Glenda Jackson won best actress award for her role in D. H. Lawrence's "Women In Love."

Not since "My Fair Lady" won eight awards in 1964 had a single picture so dominated the annual Hollywood presentations.

Helen Hayes set a record of her own. The First Lady of the American Theater became the first performer to win both a best supporting actress award and a best actress Oscar. She won best actress in 1931-32 for "The Sin Of Madelon Caludet."

In her latest honor, 40 years later, she won best supporting actress for playing an addled matron in "Airport."

John Mills was best supporting actor for his role as a mute in "Ryan's Daughter."

Scott Dominates Show

But it was Scott and his contempt for the Motion Picture Academy that dominated this presentation at the Los Angeles Music Center.

Scott said only a few days before the event on a national television show that the Academy Awards were "two hours of a meat parade." The actor's unhappiness for the competitive aspects of the award dates back to 1961 when he was nominated for best supporting actor in "The Hustler." He previously had been nominated for the same award in "Anatomy Of a Murder" in 1959.

Goldie Hawn, best supporting actress in 1969, gasped when she opened the envelope.

"Oh my God ... the winner is George C. Scott."

The announcement did not meet with great enthusiasm by the celebrity-studded audience.

Scott's producer, Frank McCarthy, a former Army general himself, said he was "sorry" about Scott's attitude, adding, "but he is entitled to his own opinion."

McCarthy also reflected the general feeling of the Academy that Scott's victory demonstrated that its awards were not popularity contests.

The "Patton" sweep included the highly-pried award for best direction, won by Franklin J. Schaffner.

"Patton" also captured best achievement in sound, art direction, set decoration, film editing and the best story and screen play.

Surprisingly, "Love Story" — the biggest box office success of the year —won only a single Oscar, for best original score.

The nationally televised Awards program featured more than 30 stars who sang, danced, and introduced the winners.

The most emotional moment of the evening came during a special award to Lillian Gish for her contributions to motion pictures going back to silent days.

Ovation for Gish

After introduction by Melvyn Douglas, the tiny but durable actress received a thunderous standing ovation.

Miss Gish said, "I wish all the charming ghosts I feel around me could share this." Afterwards, she added, "I was breathless. If it had been silent I could have acted out my feelings but I had to use words."

Frank Sinatra stirred the audience in one of his final public appearances by accepting the Jean Hersholt Humanitarian Award. He told the television audience, "This is truly an all consuming thrill for me tonight ... and I want Mr. and Mrs. John Doe who give of yourselves to reach out and take your share of this award."

Later Sinatra said the award meant more to him than the Oscar he won for best supporting actor for "From Here To Eternity."

Winner of best song in a motion picture in 1970 was "For All We Know" from the film "Lovers and Other Strangers."

Of the winners in the performing categories only John Mills was present to accept his Oscar.

McCarthy took the award for Scott as well as one for himself.

McCarthy, sitting beside Army Gen. Omar Bradley, who acted as technical director of "Patton," said, "I'm pleased George Scott won the award because I think he is the best actor I have ever seen."

Cuts Go Into Effect on May 1

Axe Poised for Welfare Recipients

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) —More than one million New Yorkers will find their welfare checks slashed by 10 per cent May 1.

And thousands more who are on Medicaid will find the state will no longer pay for drugs, dental work, glasses, artificial limbs and nursing care.

The reductions were the latest parts of the legislature's $150 million welfare and Medicaid cutback program which Governor Rockefeller signed into law Thursday.

Rockefeller signed the bills without comment. They are separate from his own welfare reform program, which includes a one-year residency law for welfare recipients.

The main welfare cutback reduced benefits by 10 per cent for all Home Relief and Aid to Dependent Children recipients in the 11-county New York City metropolitan area and Monroe County. The average monthly payment for a family of four will drop from $231 to $208, the same level now in effect in the rest of upstate.

The only exemption from the cut is the small number of recipients on the aged blind, and disabled category.

The Medicaid cutback bill would limit care for those not on welfare to doctor and hospital bills. This is expected to effect some 500,000 persons who now receive the other specialized services.

The welfare cutback bill will save an estimated $27 million a year and the Medicaid cutback an additional $9.1 million.

Earlier the legislature passed and Rockefeller signed legislation cutting Medicaid eligibility levels significatly. The combined effect would permit only minimum benefits under New York's Medicaid program which was once by far the most liberal in the country.

The entire state Medicaid and welfare cutback program, once it is passed and signed, will save an estimated $150 million a year.

So far the proposals have been passed on party line votes in the legislature, with Democratic opponents charging Republicans with trying to "execute the poor."

Rockefeller's residency requirement and another of his proposals for an inspector general of welfare are the main administration bills which have not passed.

The law has already been changed to eliminate a 7.2 per cent cost of living hike for welfare recipients and requiring leaf-raking type work for able bodied recipients.

In addition the legislature gave Rockefeller power for the first time over the hiring and firing of the state social services commissioner. For years this power was vested in the state board of social welfare.

Troops Surround Canadian Prison

KINGSTON, Ont. (UPI)—Specially trained army troops surrounded Canada's largest prison today while a panel of civilians listened inside to the grievances of more than 500 convicts who were holding six guards hostage.

A group of 504 of Kingston Penitentiary's 658 prisoners took over the prison's cross-shaped central block building Thursday. They apparently did not have any weapons.

They threatened to cut off a guard's finger for every shot fired at them if the troops or the remaining guards attacked.

The prisoners were protesting conditions in the 138-year-old building, their impending transfer to a new prison and alleged police tortures.

"There is definite danger to the hostages if the officials try to use force," said Rabbi Michael Cziement of Kingston, who was in and out of the convict - controlled buildings throughout the day.

"There are many young men in there who are not concerned for their lives. The older inmates are trying to keep them cool. It is a tenuous balance, and the presence of the troops is making the younger men nervous."

The prisoners were represented by a committee headed by William Knight of Toronto, a burglar serving a three-year term. The convicts demanded that a citizens committee be sent in to hear their complaints, including at least four members from a list of 10 nominees they submitted.

With Royal Canadian Mounted Police help, a five-man committee was assembled and Thursday began through-the-night talks with the inmate leaders in the prison hospital, which still was in official hands.

The prisoners won one point in their demands late Thursday night when troops left food for them. Soldiers left cartons of sandwiches and milk at a door to the convict-controlled building, then walked back 50 feet, as the prisoners had specified, so the food could be hauled inside.

TV May Zoom in on Tricia, Edward

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Tricia Nion's June 12 wedding will take place in the White House Rose Garden, amid banks of flowers and the music of violins, with 400 guests—and perhaps a nationwide television audience—looking on.

Tricia and her groom, Edward Finch Cox, will leave the White House by way of the sweeping marble staircase at the South Portico, and stroll down a blossom-lined aisle to the west end of the Rose Garden where an altar will be set up in front of President Nixon's Oval Office.

A string group will play wedding music at the east end of the garden.

Connie Stuart, Mrs. Nixon's staff director, announced the wedding details Thursday, and said the television networks already had asked permission to air the event.

"We are considering offering portions of the wedding for TV coverage," Mrs. Stuart said. We're considering everything. We're hoping to be as cooperative as possible."

If it rains the service will be moved inside to the East Room, where seven other presidents' daughters have been married.

The Rose Garden was decided on, Mrs. Stuart said, "because it's a lovely time of year" and the flowers will be in full bloom then.

"It was very much Tricia's preference to have an outdoor wedding," she said.

The ceremony will be conducted by Dr. Edward G. Latch, chaplain of the House of Representatives. The guest list is being limited to 400, which is about as many as can be comfortably seated in the Rose Garden.

After the official wedding pictures, perhaps to be taken in the Grand Hall, the wedding party will move to the Blue Room where they will greet the guests.

11 in Antiwar Group Get Subpoenas

BOSTON (UPI)—An antiwar group announced Thursday night 11 persons had been subpoenaed to appear next week in Harrisburg, Pa., before a federal grand jury investigating the East Coast Conspiracy to Save Lives.

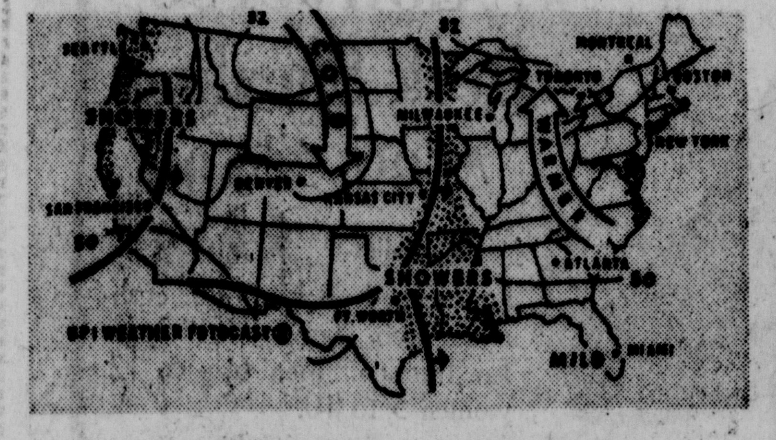
Six members of the conspiracy, including the Rev. Philip Berrigan, have been indicted by the grand jury for allegedly plotting to kidnap presidential aide Henry Kissinger and plant explosives in government buildings. Six others, including Philip's brother, the Rev. Daniel Berrigan, were indicted as co-conspirators.

The Harrisburg Defense Commission said three veterans of the antiwar movement from the Boston area were given subpoenas by federal agents Thursday.

"Other subpoenas to the same grand jury were issued for at least eight other people in New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, and Lewisburg," the commission said.

The FBI local office declined to comment on the statement.

The three from the Boston area were identified as Paul Couming, 22, of Boston, Claudette Piper, 29, of Cambridge, and Anne Walsh, 28, of Boston. The others were not identified.



For Period Ending 7 a. m. EST Saturday

Tonight, showers are expected along the Pacific Coast and over portions of the western mountains. Scattered showers and thunderstorms are forecast from the Central Gulf Coast northward through the Mississippi Valley. It will be warmer from the Ohio Valley to the Atlantic coast with little change elsewhere. Minimum temperatures: Atlanta 44, Boston 33, Chicago 44, Cleveland 41, Denver 27, Duluth 37, Ft. Marbletown to Implement Recycling on Saturday

STONE RIDGE

The Town of Marbletown will implement its recycling program this Saturday.

Town Supervisor Kenneth Smith announced today that two areas at the town dump have been enclosed with snow fencing, one designated for the deposit of aluminum waste and the other for glass. The townspeople are requested to separate these items from the rest of their refuse so that it may be collected at the town dump on the Berme Road and resold by the town.

In addition, Jesse Williams, Road Commissioner, has set aside a section of the Town Garage behind the Town Hall where townspeople may deposit their newspapers and magazines, which will also be resold. The newspaper should be tied in packages, preferably about 25 pounds in weight, so they will be easy to handle; the magazines separate, and similarly tied.

Aluminum appropriate for recycling consists of TV dinner plates, pie tins, which should be clean and beverage cans without seams on side and bottom, non-magnetic. Glass bottles may be non-returnable beverage bottles, from which tops and any metal rings have been removed. Food jars are acceptable if they have been cleaned. All should be unbroken, as they will have to be sorted by volunteers before resale, and broken glass can be dangerous.

Saugerties Man Beaten, Robbed; Police Seek 4

MT. MARION

Kingston state police are seeking four persons involved in the robbery and assault of a Saugerties man, who told troopers the four robbed him of $260 in cash after they kicked and punched him, knocking him to the ground.

Senior Investigator Michael Lisman identified the victim as Chester Dorosz, 48 of Partition Street, Saugerties, who said he met the four people at a bar in Kingston and they offered him a ride home. The robbery took place on Old Kings Highway at Mt. Marion about 11:45 p.m. where they left the victim on the ground and fled in a car.

Chief Riley Dies Suddenly

KINGSTON

Charles P. Riley, chief of Saugerties Town Police, died suddenly this morning at Benedictine Hospital. Further details were unavailable.

Riley was elevated to police chief a few years ago when the Town of Saugerties reached first class town status. Prior to that he served as a town constable for many years and was in charge of maintenance at Cantine Memorial Field, the town's recreation park in the village.

School Budget Is Trimmed

SAUGERTIES

The Saugerties Central School preliminary budget was revised downward to $5,546,824 at a special meeting of the Board of Education Thursday night.

Dr. Dexter O. Arnold, superintendent of schools said the new preliminary figure represents a decrease of $26,519.24 and will reflect in an estimated tax rate of $126.06, which is $2.01 per $1,000 of assessed valuation less than the previous estimation. The current tax rate is $124.63 which put the increase at $1.43 per thousand.

Red Hook Adopts New Budget

RED HOOK

The Red Hook Village Board of Trustees quietly adopted its 1971-72 budget Thursday night after a public hearing with no residents in attendance.

A few showed up later to ask questions.

The effect of the budget on village taxpayers is a $2 per thousand assessed valuation increase from $42 to $44, with a 19 per cent equalization rates. This is comprised of about a $5,000 increase in the amount to be raised by real estate taxes.

Mayor Robert Bowman told The Freeman that most of this amount can be attributed to "general cost increases" for materials, with a few salary increases as well.

Village Clerk Francis Rabbett will receive an $800 salary increase, and another $400 has been allocated for part time treasurer, causing an increase in this category of $1,200. Rabbett has been performing both duties for the past eight years. He will now be free to oversee village laborers and police to a greater extent, explained the mayor.

The two full time policemen each will receive a $300 a year raise. The village also employs six part time police.

There have been additional monies allotted to hire a part-time water department employee, instead of using the laborers. He will spend some time reading water meters, a method suggested by the State Department of Audit and Control in its report this month.

Some additional revenues may be expected through Kingston Cablevision. Trustee Jack Gilfeather said that he had been "unofficially" assured that the Village of Red Hook would have cable television service by Sept. 1 of this year.

Earth Week in Kingston —

KINGSTON

The city Public Works Department is instituting a test period for a huge recycling project in conjunction with the observance of Earth Week, and city officials are urging residents to cooperate by separating discarded newspapers, magazines, aluminum tins and glass containers in the interest of ecology.

The test period will begin Monday and continue on an experimental basis through May 15.

Mayor Francis R. Koenig proclaimed next week as Earth Week in the City of Kingston.

Emphasizing "our commitment to focus attention on the environment," Koenig called on all city residents "to rededicate themselves to improving the quality of our environment."

Charles Cole, superintendent of the Board of Public Works announced that his department will dispatch a special vehicle to handle materials that can be recycled such as newpapers, magazines, aluminum tins, glass, disposable or returnable bottles, clear or colored, food jars and jugs. He asked for the cooperation of city residents to assist the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce's Environmental Task Force in its program to return salvaged materials to industry for reprocessing as raw materials.

Cole noted that solid wastes that could be recycled are now being discarded and buried in the landfill at Kingston Point and estimates that this refuse amounts to as much as 40 to 50 per cent of the total volume handled.

The call for cooperation asks residents in the city to make a special effort to separate aluminum tins, bottles, newspapers and magazines. These items should be set at the curb starting Monday on the regularly scheduled day for refuse collection in each particular area. These materials will receive special handling and will be moved to a central storage depot at the old municipal incinerator site on Wilbur Avenue, Cole said.

Newspapers and magazines should be bundled and tied to prevent blowing about and should not be set out before 7 a.m. on collection day. Wet newpapers cannot be stored, therefore, would not be good for recycling. Should it rain on the scheduled pickup day, residents are asked to continue dry storage until the next collection day, Cole advised.

Aluminum tins should be stored and placed in cartons or plastic bags. Crushing the tin would reduce the storage and handling operation, he said. Bottles and jars should be rinsed of any contents and all metal caps and strippings removed. Colored glass is acceptable and should be graded accordingly. Combined colors must also be graded at the storage depot by department personnel unless done by the residents. All items should be placed in continers, cardboard cartons or plastic bags.

Additional bulletins will be issued in conjunction with the special supplement to the annual spring cleanup campaign, Cole said.

On Guard at Ping Pong

The inclination is to say, thank goodness for a ping pong ball, it has succeeded where diplomacy fails. But in dealing with communism, Americans should never let the mustache fool them. Peking agreed to let a table tennis team of 15 young Americans into Red China for a week, hoping no doubt that their Chinese adversaries can drub them. The invitation had the blessing of official Washington, which has tried without success for some time to accomplish rapport with Chairman Mao & Co. Frequent meetings between emissaries of the two countries in Warsaw have proved fruitless. But the ping pong ball did the trick.

Why has Peking decided to let the Americans in? There have been countless opportunities over the years to make the same sort of gesture, but Red China would have none of it. Now, it rolls out the red carpet for representatives of U.S. youth and a handful of American correspondents. The answer seems to be that the Mao regime has finally decided it needs friends. It is making no headway with its mighty Communist neighbor, Russia, as the two glare at each other across the 3,000-plus-mile common border. Their squabble has settled into one that may grow worse before it grows better. Red China, if it must fight Russia, certainly wouldn't want the U.S. to take the Soviet side if it can be helped.

Certainly America should try to get along with Red China, and have free intercourse. Why not? We have nothing to lose just so long as we don't interpret Mao's offering of the olive branch as anything different from a gesture of necessity. A relationship such as we have with Russia would be about it. Always our guard should be up.

Just as we know that North Vietnam could not fight without Russian aid, so this applies to Red Chinese help. The latter would like nothing better than to see us pull out, our tail between our legs. And to that end, it has furnished the means to Hanoi to kill many an American boy.

The matter can be likened to the challenge our youngsters face this week as they square off against China's best. Watch for a fast serve or a tricky return.

Drug Abuse Prevention

It is smart not to use drugs. A West Coast advertising man, who saw how that attitude could stop drug abuse, has in three years seen his idea embraced by hundreds of thousands of youngsters in hundreds of cities across the country. Given four or five years more, he thinks the drug traffic can be ended in the schools.

Robert K. Squire, who originated the idea, bases it on the notion of popularizing and glamorizing non-use. Make it groovy and hip among the kids themselves. Make the non-users the "In" group, and the users the social lepers. The potheads switch sides when they find they're being ridiculed and left out of the fun, when the tide among those they are trying to impress changes from "Isn't he daring?" to "Isn't he stupid?"

The average youngster who gets hooked does it for recognition among his peers. So Squire tells the kids they're too intelligent to do something that will hurt their bodies and their brains, but some of your buddies are buying it. You're the only ones who can influence them. The police can't,, the schools can't, the parents can't, the churches can't. They've tried and failed. You're too smart to use drugs yourself, so you know that fighting drugs is a good cause. How about banding together to help kids not as smart as you come to their senses?

That appeal has swept the country. Called "Smart Set" in high schools and "Smarteens" in junior high and grade schools—yes, drugs do reach into grade schools—the clubs have already proven effective in New Hampshire, Maryland, Texas, Minnesota, Idaho, Florida, Alabama, Tennessee, Ohio and California, according to Don Weldon, a free lance writer of Long Beach, Calif.

With skillful, behind-the scenes direction and enthusiastic management by the kids themselves, it is the first good idea that works for drug abuse prevention.

Friendship With Red China May Insure Peace in Asia

WASHINGTON — The United States has opened the door to Red China — and startled the world. The visit by an American table tennis team to Peking and the cordial welcome it received occasioned widespread surprise. But President Nixon's announcement of a program to ease travel and trade restrictions to and from Red China which came a couple days later was even more of a sensation. The project has been under consideration for several weeks and was carefully planned to accomplish a major objective — to improve relations between Red China and the United States.

The Peking regime indicated that it was abandoning the "closed door" attitude of the last two decades toward the United States when visas were given to American newspapermen to enter the country. President Nixon's program now will permit visas to be accorded to individuals or groups from Red China coming to this country.

Currency controls are to be relaxed so as to allow the use of dollars by the people of China, though previously a license had to be obtained for this. Restrictions on American oil companies have been removed in order that they may provide fuel to ships or aircraft proceeding to and from China, except those which are Chinese owned or chartered traveling to or from North Vietnam, North Korea or Cuba.

The President also will approve a list of specific items that may be exported and imported in trade with Red China, and perhaps will announce other ways of relaxing present tensions in the relations between the Peking and Washington governments.

All this has raised the question of whether the United States will vote to admit Communist China into the United Nations, since Nationalist China is already a member of the security council. The U.S. and many of its supporters feel that Nationalist China should remain a member if Communist China should be admitted. Pakistan and India, for example, were united under British rule. Both countries, now independent, are members of the U. N.

Actually, the most important fact is that a move toward a friendly relationship between the United States and Red China has been begun, though the emphasis at present is on increasing trade. An inter-agency committee in Washington is working on a list of non-strategic items, such as pharmaceutical products and consumer goods, which may be approved for export to China. Every effort will be made to remove obstacles to personal and commercial contacts with mainland Chinese.

Already on Capitol Hill there are many who applaud what has been done and who believe that the Russians will be very much interested in the fact that the United States has openly expressed a desire to improve relations with Red China. It is conceivable that this could even have an effect on the Vietnam situation, since Red China is influential with the North Vietnamese and might play some part in cutting down the length of the war.

All the discussion at the moment, however, is concentrated on the best way of developing trade between the United States and the mainland Chinese. Economic problems are of incalculable importance to Peking. The government has to worry about 800,000,000 people. At present the country is in need of many industrial facilities. These probably would be introduced once relations with the rest of the world are on a less hostile basis.

The American government has kept the Chinese Nationalist informed of these plans, and it would not be surprising if some day the remarkable progress made on Formosa by the Nationalist Government would ease the way for a change of relationship between Chinese on the mainland and those on the island of Formosa. The United States government is bent on using the most constructive way to build friendships today. For economic troubles are worrying all nations, and unless big populations can be kept contented, the rulers will not find it easy to retain power.

So there are advantages to the Red Chinese in getting better trade contacts with the United States. Opportunities will arise for this country, too, to improve its relations with the people of Asia by bringing about a peaceful situation on a continent that has long been disturbed by war and threats of war. Certainly a growing friendship with Red China will help to insure peace in Asia.

CLOAK-AND-DAGGERING WITH THE OSS WASN'T ALL GRIM

Before there was a CIA, prowling and plotting, there was an OSS and, before that, Lincoln had his Pinkertons. Spying must always be fascinating because it's the only career where a "Peeping Tom" gets paid. It was "Wild Bill" Donovan who organized the Office of Strategic Services for Franklin D. Roosevelt, a super-duper espionage agency where the personnel were so well camouflaged that they didn't know each other.

It did more than its share of intelligence work in World War II, but, in rare instances, it had its amusing side, too. There is an articulate gentleman named Horace Schmahl, for example, who is now a shipping and insurance executive, who was once part of Donovan's OSS. Early in the war, an admiral at a formal dinner told Donovan that his OSS was nothing more than a Tinker Toy outfit, spying on spies.

Donovan said: "I don't know. Admiral. I think that we could get your secret files and blow up your ammunition dump on the other side of the river before midnight." "Ha!" said the admiral. Donovan went to the men's room and called Schmahl.

Within an hour, an array of ranking Navy officers were at the Navy Building demanding to see the admiral. The sentry saluted, and said he wasn't in his office. "Then," they said imperiously, shifting their briefcases, "we'll wait in his office." They went upstairs. One of the officers was a safe cracker. They opened the admiral's top-secret safe, took everything, and departed, getting a salute from the sentry.

They took empty dynamite tubes, drove to the ammunition dump, bawled out the officer of the day for not demanding their security clearances, and planted the phony dynamite. Before the dinner was over, Donovan handed the admiral his top-secret file and told him where to find the explosives. In the morning, there were red faces and Navy heads rolled.

The OSS dropped men behind German lines and learned more about Nazi troop movements in a half-hour chat with a railroad man over a bottle of wine than if they spent the same time with Adolf Hitler. OSS men got jobs as German filling station attendants, and put gasoline in Tiger tanks and deposited a little rubber ring. Hours later, when the ring swelled, the tank blew up.

The OSS also made a small anerometer, which was deposited in the tail sections of warplanes. Nothing happened until the aircraft reached 5,000 feet. Then the anerometer tripped the explosive. Auch, du lieber!

Dr. Stanley Lovell, who was in charge of the OSS "Dirty Tricks" department, found that the Japanese were hypersensitive about personal cleanliness. They felt that any contact with human fecal matter was a disgrace. So Lovell had chemists work on a compound which was an ideal imitation.

It was distributed to Chinese children in Japanese-occupied areas. The stuff was in a tube, and the kids crept up behind officers squirted it at the back of their breeches, and fled. it was called "Who? Me?"

Few men passed OSS training because it required intellect, ingenuity, character and stoicism. An editor friend of mine, a huge character with blond hair and big mustache, made it. The OSS didn't know what I knew—he was brilliant but he had an eccentric wheel in his head.

He was told, in OSS school, that if he was behind enemy lines and he thought that someone suspected him, to send an anonymous letter to the Gestapo stating two checkable truths about the person who was tailing him, and one lie. If the Gestapo found the first two to be accurate, they'd believe the third and arrest the man.

The eidtor's class was told they all had new names, new home towns, new I.D. cards, new clothing labels, new occupations. They would meet in one week at a downtown Philadelphia hotel. They would sit in the lobby and wait for a stranger to walk in at 7 p.m., buy a cigar, snip the end off, and leave without lighting it. That would be their new boss.

My dummy friend decided to put this "two truths" thing to the test. He sent an anonymous note to the FBI. "Saboteurs will meet at the . . . . Hotel lobby at 7 p.m. Wednesday. They will wait for a man to come in, buy a cigar, snip the end off without lighting it, and leave. Then they will go to the Philadelphia Navy Yard and blow up the battleship Iowa."

It worked beautifully. My friend sat in the lobby, not talking to the other OSS agents, and saw sneaky faces behind every palm frond. A man walked in, bought a cigar, snipped the end off, and walked out. The FBI nabbed the entire group.

In jail, the FBI found they had fake names, fake addresses. Saboteurs for sure. It required "Wild Bill" Donovan himself to get them out. "I was only putting the theory to the test," my friend said. They put him to the test. He was in charge of a file cabinet marked "B" for blunders. . .

FBI Seeks Xerox Machine Specimens in Hunt for Thieves

WASHINGTON—The FBI has tried unsuccessfully to get the Xerox Corporation to provide a sample copy from thousands of its clients' machines so the FBI can find out who duplicated its recently stolen documents.

The company, however, did agree to furnish the FBI's Buffalo, N.Y., office a list of all clients who rent its "600" series copying machines, one of which was apparently used to run off the stolen papers.

The documents, stolen from the FBI office at Media, Pa., and sent anonymously to several newspapers, revealed extensive FBI surveillance of black and student activist groups.

Gerard Mulligan, a spokesman for Xerox, said that in addition to the client list, the FBI wanted the company to have its service representatives make an extra, blank copy on every machine they inspected during their regular service calls.

Mulligan explained that every Xerox copy, even the blank ones, have uniform distinguishing markings by which it would be possible to trace an individual copy to the machine which produced it.

He said the markings are caused by slight differences in the surfaces of the internal "drums" on which the copies are printed. The extra blank copies requested were to be turned over to the FBI.

However, Mulligan said, "The top management considered the request and decided against it. What it came down to was the ethical responsibilities of the business.

"If we were to do this," he added, "we had a responsibility to inform our customers it was being done and this would have defeated the FBI's whole purpose."

Mulligan said the request for the client list came several days before the FBI tried to enlist the service department. He said the list was provided because the company felt it was the kind of information a government investigative agency could eventually have obtained by subpoena anyway.

Asked to comment on the matter, a spokesman for the FBI would not discuss it.

Vice President Spiro Agnew has had a falling out with George Christopher, the most prominent Greek-American in the West, over an autograph for a 14-year-old boy dying of cancer.

The boy, Christopher's nephew Jimmy Davies, had boasted to his hospital roommate that his uncle knew Agnew. Jimmy asked whether "Uncle George" could get Agnew's autographs for him and his roommate.

Christopher, who has no children of his own, was devoted to his nephew. The solicitous uncle had even cut short a trip to Australia to be at the boy's side. He promised to get the autographs, inscribed to the two boys by name.

It seemed to be an easy promise. After all Republican Mayor of San Francisco and candidate for Governor of California, had taken Agnew by hand after his nomination in 1968.

By Christopher's reckoning, he raised "hundreds of thousands of dollars" for the Nixon-Agnew ticket among Greeks. He donated $5,000 of his own money and spent another $35,000 promoting the Republican ticket with Greeks across the country.

Afterwards, the victorious Agnew had told him: "I will never forget what you have done."

So Christopher telephoned the Vice President in Washington and was told Agnew would call back. After waiting three days for the call to be returned, Christopher phoned again. and again he was told Agnew would call back.

Several more days passed without a call, and little Jimmy was gravely ill. Christopher was determined the boy should not die with his last request from his uncle unmet.

Flight to Phoenix

The troubled Christopher, learning that Agnew would address a fund-raising dinner in Phoenix, bought two tickets (at $100 apiece) and flew to Arizona to buttonhole the Vice President himself.

He met Agnew at the airport where, as Christopher described it, the Vice President was "cordial but casual." Could he see him about a small but vital personal matter, asked Christopher. "Talk to Art Summers (Agnew's administrative assistant)," the Vice President said.

What about the dinner, could he see Agnew at his hotel? "All right," Agnew said.

When Christopher finally got through the security suite that night, he was headed off by an aide. At this point, Christopher said, "I was ready to fake the autographs so I wouldn't go back to those boys empty handed."

He described his mission to the aide, saying he wanted to see the Vice President briefly to explain how to inscribe the autographs. The aide disappeared, then reappeared about 20 minutes later with two pre-signed autograph cards of the variety that politicians carry by the hundreds to pass out to well-wishers.

George Christopher never got to see Agnew. His nephew has now died, and Christopher remains deeply hurt by the incident.

Footnote: A spokesman for the Vice President blamed the episode on poor staff work, said Agnew never knew what Christopher wanted and was unaware his friend had been so wounded.

East Junket

Six enthusiastic members, who usually can't be dragged to the regular work sessions of the House Territorial Affairs Subcommittee, showed up for a 10-day Easter junket to the Virgin Islands. Some even brought along their wives.

The official purpose of the trip was to attend conferences with island officials. But ample time was allowed for siestas on the balmy isles' sparkling beaches or in front of rum coolers.

The manifest for the flight included Chairman Phil Burton of Calif., Tom Foley of Wash., Bob Stephens of Ga., Teno Roncalio of Wyo., and, for part of the trip, Joe Vigorito of Pa., all Democrats. One lone Republican, Manuel Lujan of N.M., made the trip.

To make sure that work was kept to a minimum for the Congressmen, they took along hard-working Bill Thomas, a committee consultant. He will write a report so the subcommittee can offer the taxpayers some justification for Eastering on the isles at their expense.

GOP Lawmakers and Rocky Part Company on Budget

By BRUCE B. DETLEFSEN
Associated Press Writer

ALBANY, N.Y. AP—Rank-and-file Republicans in the state legislature, after a winter of discontent, are feeling a sense of power that could make the final weeks of the 1971 session an especially tough time for Gov. Rockefeller.

The GOP legislators want it to be known that they—not the governor—have put the brakes on what one upstate Republican called "the runaway engine of reckless spending in this state."

A sharp distinction is being made between the $8.45 billion spending plan Rockefeller submitted in February and the $7.69 billion budget passed by the legislature in early April.

What was supposed to be an uncuttable executive budget, the Republican lawmakers are telling their constituents, was reduced by more than $750 million because rank-and-file assemblymen and senators refused to wait quietly in the wings while the party leadership made important fiscal decisions.

In the Assembly, for example, almost all of the Republican members, working in small groups, spent hours dissecting Rockefeller's budget recommendations and then put into writing hundreds of proposed cuts for consideration by the Ways and Means Committee.

At one point, a group leader recalled, "we gave Ways and Means 456 statements or questions from our members and we got back 456 replies from the Ways and Means staff."

A legislative aide noted that many assemblymen were frustrated earlier in the session. The public was reacting strongly against the prospect of a $1.1 billion tax increase. And, the aide said, legislators acting individually were getting nowhere when they sought information from state agency and department heads.

"But once we got together in those small groups," one assemblyman added, "there was for the first time a forum for exchanging ideas."

By contrast, the legislator said, it used to be that one of the members would express an idea about state spending only to have someone snap back, "Do you think you're smarter than 232 guys in the Budget Office?"

When the budget bills reached the floor April 1, Republican Assemblyman James T. McFarland of Buffalo noted how conspicuously things had changed.

In previous years, McFarland said, "you took that voluminous document and put it in your library at home. And when someone said, 'What is it?', you said it is the budget, and you could feel the weight of it, and it was eight pounds, But the document barely got cracked open."

In 1971, however, legislators were carrying their budget to lengthy meetings, with the copies heavily marked.

"We are into this budget," McFarland said during Assembly floor debate, "and we are in up to our necks. And when the troops start getting educated, they will not be fooled any longer. And these troops are educated."

The legislator's major roll in producing the new budget—"our budget," McFarland said of the final product—now is being described by the Republican Assemblyman, including Speaker Perry B. Duryea Jr., as a turning point in the relationship between the executive and legislative branches of government.

What they are saying in effect, is that the lawmakers seized the initiative on the most important issue this year—the cost of government.

The question now is whether Republican governor and the legislature's GOP majority will move further apart or draw closer together between next week and the close of the session.

Vacuum Cleaners Can be Easy to Repair

Be a hero to your wife and save a few dollars in servicing by keeping the household vacuum cleaner in repair yourself.

Few appliances get more constant use. Advertising claims notwithstanding, vacuum cleaners have remained pretty much the same over the years and certain basic features are common to all makes.

There are not many parts and they are not complicated. A fan provides the suction. A motor drives the fan. A dust bag holds the dirt. On upright models the motor also turns a revolving brush that loosens dirt as it stirs up the carpet nap.

The dust bag needs the most frequent attention. Ranking not far behind it is the revolving brush if the cleaner is equipped with one. Failure to keep these items clean will result in poor operation.

It seems obvious but people forget—keep the dust bag emptied. Since most cleaners are equipped with disposable paper bags inserts the job isn't that much of a problem.

Remember that while the dirt stops in the bag, the air continues on through. If it didn't there would be no suction. The bag filters out the dust before the air goes back into the room. When the bag is full the air cannot pass through the bag as easily and the vacuum loses its pull. A new bag will cure that.

The fabric bag that holds the paper insert should be cleaned occasionally. Pick a pleasant and not-too-windy day and work outside. Turn the bag inside out and brush the inside surface. Do not wash since washing can destroy the bag's dust retaining properties.

Check the revolving brush frequently. String, stands of lint, thread wind themselves around the brush. If you can't unwind them, clip carefully with a pair of scissors.

If the brush isn't revolving it is probably because the rubber belt that turns it is broken. Keep spares on hand; they cost only pennies. Check the tension on the belt now and then. Even if not broken, it may be stretched to the point where it doesn't work properly.

In other respects the vacuum cleaner is like most other electric appliances. If if stops and starts or won't even start check the cord and the plug. The prongs of the plug may be loose or there may be a short in the cord. Bend the cord at various points to see if it causes the motor to stop and start.

Check all connections — the switch turns the power on and off, the wires that connect the switch to the motor.

Like most motors, the one on a vacuum cleaner will stop when the brushes wear out. These are not brushes in the usual sense but short pieces of carbon mounted on springs on both sides of the motor. Remove the caps that cover them, remove the brushes and replace.

Most electrical shops and places carrying vacuum cleaner parts stock them. Other motor troubles such as burned out coils are better left to the professional serviceman.

If there is a stranger vibration, check the fan. Blades may be cracked or broken. Replace the fan.

The Green Thumb

Many readers have access to wood chips and sawdust but are afraid to use these materials as a mulch or in the home garden.

No reason why you cannot add wood chips or sawdust to your soil. They have no effect on soil acidity (as many believe) nor are they toxic to plants, aside from the temporary shortage of nitrogen. You can offset the nitrogen shortage by adding any fertilizer with nitrogen in it. We use a liquid plant food (such as 23-19-17), drenched right over the mulched material. Or you can sprinkle it on a compost pile containing the wood wastes. Chips and sawdust have a favorable effect on soil structure, loosening up a clay soil and tightening up a sandy one. These materials are a big help in soil management, as is any organic item. If you can get a truckload of leaves in fall, don't turn them down. Turn them into the ground! These materials improve tilth, help resist compaction and erosion, increase pore space, promote earthworm activity and hold moisture.

In tests, two or three times as many earthworms were found in the chip treatments, than under no-chip tests. These items are useful as a mulch, and can be used at rate of 2 inches thick around base of trees or shrubs. Any wood waste, used in conjunction with extra fertilizer, turns clay and sand into a rich loamy soil for better plant growth. Don't worry about disease (such as Dutch Elm) from the chips, as it's unlikely that either insects or disease will be a problem.

EASTER LILY CARE: That lily you got for Easter can put on another show for you this summer. After the plants have finished blooming, set them out in a garden, in a permanent spot. The lily will blossom each year. Some gardeners have good luck forcing the plant to bloom again indoors. The florists' hydrangea can be set outdoors during the summer months. Since the buds are apt to winter-kill, you'll either have to protect it in winter, or move the plant into the basement. Keep it slightly watered during the winter months, and then set it outdoors in spring, when it will bloom.

Rock Salt Debut

HIMROD, N. Y. (AP) — The state's first rock salt mine will be opened this summer in this Yates County community, according to plans announced by Morton Salt Co.

Beginning production is expected to reach the 2.5-million-ton mark, employing perhaps as many as 200 workers. Tests made at the Himrod site show salt reaching a depth of nearly 2,000 feet, the company said.

Judith Hains Weds Thomas R. Ryan

St. Patrick's Church, Ravena, was the setting of the wedding of Miss Judith Ruth Hains, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lester J. Hains of 56 Wendell Street, Ravena, and Thomas Robert Ryan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Ryan of 187 Wall Street, Kingston, on Saturday, Apr. 3. The Rev. Carl Urban, the Rev. Anthony Diacetis and the Rev. William Pape concelebrated the Nuptial Folk Mass.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an A-line gown of white satin, trimmed with Alencon lace and seed pearls. Her silk illusion fingertip veil fell from a Dior bow which was accented by seed pearls.

Mrs. Joseph Grant Jr. of Albany was matron of honor for her sister. Attendants were Mrs. Thomas Keeley of Farmingdale and Mrs. William Ryan of Hurley. Each wore a long sleeve gown of peach chiffon over taffeta with floral print bodices. They also wore white picture hats, trimmed with velvet ribbon.

William Ryan, brother of the bridegroom, Hurley was best man. John Hains, brother of the bride, and Michael McGowan of Kingston served as ushers.

Following a reception at Cordial Greens Country Club, the couple left on a motor trip to Florida. Mr. and Mrs. Ryan will reside in New Paltz.

This will be the first time that the program has ever been aired. Cablevision subscribers in Kingston and Saugerties area can receive the show over Channel 12.

French folksinger Sonia will appear locally in her home town of Woodstock in June. She also will be one of the many nationally-known performers to be presented in the weekly Saturday night Spring Music Series starting this Saturday which will be held at Woodstock Artists Gallery on the Village Green in Woodstock.

GERALD GOODMAN

Guest Artist at Sunday Concert

Area residents will be afforded the opportunity of hearing a top professional artist who has been acclaimed as one of the foremost harpists of our time. Gerald Goodman will appear as guest artist in the First Seminar Concert to be held Sunday, Apr. 18, at Ascension Parish Hall, in West Park, 4 p.m.

Originally, this concert was to have been held December 13, but had to be cancelled due to a storm.

A troubadour-harpist, Goodman creates a forgotten majesty of the past for modern audiences. Critics and audiences alike have been impressed with this artist's imaginative programs, for the handsome young baritone is the only man who sings and accompanies himself on a concert harp. His sparkling style is applied to a unique repertoire extending from medieval ballads to contemporary American pop. He has brought concert audiences to standing ovations with astonishing regularity.

A student of the renounced harpist Carlos Salzedo, Goodman has concertised widely throughout the United States and Canada. His appearances with leading orchestras in Carnegie Hall and frequent Town Hall recitals have been marked by capacity audiences.

A man of varied background, Gerald Goodman has had experience in acting, singing and instrumental performing. As a result, he has great versatility. He creates distinctive programs which not only display his brilliant technique as an instrumentalist, but as a vocalist as well, for he possesses a rich baritone voice.

The public is invited to attend.

Milch-Forst Betrothal Told

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Milch of Braintree, Mass. announce the engagement of their daughter, Laurel Ann, to Leland Forst, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Forst, of Kingston.

Miss Milch is a graduate of Braintree High School and will be a graduate of the Univeristy of Massachusetts at Amherst.

Mr. Forst is a graduate of Kingston High School and University of Massachusetts at Amherst. He is a Doctoral Candidate at the University of Massachusetts at Amherst and is on a Teaching Fellowship with the University.

An August wedding is being planned.

Dear Abby

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
News Synd., Inc.)
(© 1971 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y.

DEAR ABBY: The letter signed "WELL KEPT—BUT UNLOVED," in which the husband stated that he must "earn" his loving, struck home with me. For years, women have been using sex as a weapon.

I've been married for 30 years and have raised two children. I never wanted my wife to work, and for 25 years she didn't. Then she said she wanted to go to work so she could be a "person" instead of just a housewife. I reluctantly agreed, with the understanding that she would not expect me to do any more around the house than I did before.

Well, do you know how long that understanding lasted? About a year. Then she started complaining about all the laundry and housework that piled up all week. I told her if it was too much for her, she should quit her job. She said no, she wouldn't quit her job, she needed more help from me. All the while she was working she was too beat to provide me with any loving. She finally said if I helped her more around the house she would somehow "find" the strength to give me some loving. I was dumbfounded, but said nothing.

For a year and a half I haven't gone near her. We are Catholics, and when I point out that the church considers it a sin for a wife to deny her husband, she tells me the church is not going to run her life. I am not the type to look for other women. I'm stuck, and I know it. But it's done me lots of good to get this off my chest.

—ALSO UNLOVED

DEAR ABBY: Thank you for telling the father who was upset over his 18-year-old daughter's refusal to shave her legs to mind his own business.

Several years ago I spent 18 months in Germany with the United States Army, and it changed my outlook considerably. I now feel that unshaven legs and under-arms make a woman highly erotic.

WHITTIER

DEAR WHITTIER: Times have changed since you were there. The well-groomed Frauleins are now defuzzed. Let's hear it from Italy!

Ulster Outlasts NYC, 10-9, for Fifth Win

BROOKLYN

It's an old baseball maxim that a coach will stay much longer with a pitcher, if he can wield a potent bat in his own defense.

For example, take Tom Gallo, the pitcher-slugger of the Ulster County Community College team. Tom was assaulted for five runs in the fourth inning by New York City Community Thursday at the Old Parade Grounds. The rally momentarily overcame a 4-0 UCCC lead.

Did Coach Al DiBernardo push the panic button? He did not. The Senators bounced back with four in the fifth to regain the lead 8-5. Gallo yielded a single tally in the fifth the pitched three shutout innings.

What happened then? UCCC picked up single tallies in the sixth and eighth innings to lead 10-6. Ramon Giminez exploded a two-out, three-run homer over centerfielder Ray Zappone's head in the bottom of the ninth to close the gap to 10-9, but Gallo got the final out to salvage his third straight victory and Ulster's fourth in five games. He fanned 11 but still was wild with 8 walks.

How did Gallo justify Coach Di Bernardo's confidence? Just like he's been doing all season. He merely stroked three singles in five trips to the plate, knocked in four runs and scored one to boost his seasonal batting average to a fancy .542 on 13 hits in 24 times at bat.

Ulster had 12 other hits besides the four by Gallo in blustery, frigid weather in keeping with their format of the 1971 season to date.

Bill Fitzgerald broke loose with a single and two doubles and a pair of RBIs. Ray Zappone doubled home two runs, while Paul Watzka, Greg Rios and John Durcan each collected two hits.

In the Ulster fifth, Greg Rios launched the four-run rally with a single. Durcan tripled to deep center scoring Rios and riding home on Gallo's single. Bob Ostrander beat out a home run and Fitzgerald doubled up the left center alley to chase Gallo and Ostrander across the plate.

Paul Watzka scored Ulster's winning run on a double steal in the eighth inning.

Roberto Tarvez, the NYC leadoff and losing pitcher Dom Cotumacio shared six of the 12 NYC hits off Gallo. Giminez's three-run homer in the ninth was his only hit in five trips.

The Senators continue their intensive early-season schedule with a game at Manhattan Saturday, then play the first game of the season at Dietz Stadium Sunday against Staten Island Community at 2 p.m.

Arlington Tops KHS

FREEDOM PLAINS

The week was a total disaster for Kingston High School's baseball team.

Confronted with four games in as many days, cold weather, and a slim pitching staff, the Maroons and Coach Ron Cole were hoping for a split and no injuries.

Instead, KHS dropped all four and two of the hurlers have come up with sore arms.

Thursday, Coach Fritz Jordan's Arlington team came from behind twice to knock off Kingston, 7-4.

"George Geanuleas is our No. 1 pitcher," Coach Cole explained, "but he's just not been throwing like himself and I think it's because of some shoulder trouble he's been having."

Against Arlington, Geanuleas walked the bases loaded twice to get himself in some real jams ("And that's not like him," said Coach Cole).

Kingston had taken a two-run lead in the first which the Admirals tied in the second. But the Maroons again jumped in front with two more in the third.

The crucial inning was the home fourth. It was here that Geanuleas walked three men in a row to fill the sacks. Then Roger Wilkerson lined a single to left scoring a run. That should have been it, but outfielder Joe Tiano's throw to the plate was high over the head of the catcher and the winning runs crossed home.

Bob Young later hit a two-run homer off Don Lackaye to ice the game for Fritz Jordan's Arlington nine.

Bob Fenn went the first four and got the win for the Admirals. Geanuleas was the loser and will be X-rayed today in an attempt to find the source of his shoulder miseries.

Lackaye also is hurting but hasn't reached the X-ray stage yet.

Kingston JV's scored three touchdowns and field goal but missed one extra point as they ripped Arlington, 23-9. Lee Geanuleas, Bill Samuels, Dan Brown, Rocky Secreto, and Chuck Bouton had three hits apiece for KHS. Bouton was the winner.

Kingston faces Saugerties at Dietz Stadium on Monday.

BATTING—Pinch-hitter Fran Healy, Giants, hit the first pitch to him in the National League for a solo home run in the 10th inning to lift San Francisco over Houston 4-3.

PITCHING—Skip Lockwood, Brewers, fired a four-hitter as Milwaukee handed the Chicago White Sox their sixth straight loss, 4-1.

Gerentine Hurls 0-Hitter

MARLBORO

Some people get all the luck — and talent too.

Rich Gerentine, an All-County basketball player for the past two seasons, showed his worth in baseball here Thursday as he hurled a no-hitter to beat Ellenville, 18-0.

In another non-league game, Red Hook topped New Paltz, 4-1.

It was mainly Gerentine's ability that contributed to his zip of the winless Ellies, but as in most zero-hit performances the pitcher received a break.

In Gerentine's case it was a big one and came at the most crucial moment in the game: two out in the last inning.

Marlboro had already settled the question of which team was going to win by scoring two in the second, twice more in the third, four times in the fourth, seven in the fifth, and three in the sixth.

All that was left was the no-hitter. Gerentine had thrown just 96 pitches in setting down the Ellies when Neil Knapp came up with two down in the top of the seventh. Rich had already fanned nine while walking four.

Knapp, who had been slugged for ten runs in a two inning relief stint, was just dying to get something out of the day. And he almost did when he lined a shot between first and second which first baseman Dwayne Martin dove for and caught to end the suspense.

"He's not a real hard thrower," Marlboro Coach Ed Sagarese said of Gerentine, "but he pitched with his head, real smart."

Suspense also was in evidence at New Paltz where the hometown Hugies were attempting to overcome Red Hook's 4-1 during their last at bat.

New Paltz loaded the sacks on hits by Mike Fairweather and Joe Williams and a walk to Vinnie Brognano. But Red Hook's Ron Camiscsca got Rick Pesavento on strikes and made Jay Ackert bounce out to end the threat and the game.

The visiting Raiders had put across all its runs in the top of the fourth. New Paltz came back with its lone tally in the bottom of the inning.

Each team had four hits.

Issel Hits 46 For Colonels

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Any notions that Dan Issel is off his game have been dashed.

Unfortunately for the Virginia Squires, they were the first to find out.

Issel averaged 21.3 points a game in the Kentucky Colonels semifinal playoffs against the Floridians and fouled out of three games. Quite a turnabout from regular season play when he led the American Basketball Association with a 29.9 average and fouled out of only eight contests.

But the 6-foot-9 roving pivotman was in superlative form Thursday night when he poured in 46 points to pace the Colonels to a 136-132 victory over the Squires in the opening game of their best-of-seven ABA Eastern Division final playoff.

The Colonels-Squires game was the only ABA action as the Western Division finalists, Utah and Indiana, had the night off. The series, locked at 1-1, resumes Saturday at Salt Lake City.

A merry-go-round defense of Doug Moe, Neil Johnson, 6-foot-11 Jim Eakins and Bill Bunting was no match for Issel who had 29 points at the half and 42 at the end of the third period.

The Squires, who never led, tied the game at 130 with a minute to go, but steady Cincy Powell, who finished with 31 points, and Darel Carrier combined for six free throws and put the game out of reach.

Charlie Scott led Virginia with 35 points while Ray Scott and George Carter had 27 each.

The second game will be played Saturday at Norfolk, Va.

PLUNKED BY PITCH — New York Yankees' Roy White winces in pain after being hit by a pitch thrown by Detroit Tigers' Dean Chance in fourth inning of game at Yankee Stadium Thursday. The catcher is Bill Freehan. The Tigers won the game, 3-2. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Tigers Cage Yankees, 3-2

NEW YORK (UPI) —Eddie Brinkman singled in the tie-breaking run off reliever Lindy McDaniel Thursday to give the Detroit Tigers a 3-2 victory over the New York Yankees.

Mel Stottlemyre, who held the Tigers to four hits in eight innings, was lifted for pinchhitter and McDaniel came on to start the ninth.

Aurelio Rodriguez started the inning with an infield single and was sacrificed to second by Mickey Stanley before Brinkman looked at five straight pitches to run the count to 3-2 and then lined a single to left.

Tiger manager Billy Martin paraded seven pitchers to the mound and the last one, Jim Hannan allowed only one hit for the final 2 and 2-3 innings to get the victory.

The Yankees wasted numerous chances as they stranded 13 runners and had the bases loaded on three different occasions. The Tiger pitchers were helped out by two fine catches by Stanley in centerfield and a spectacular diving catch by Jim Northrup in left.

Felipe Alou homered for the first Yankee run off Fred Schermann in the fifth after starter Dean Chance pitched four scoreless innings and was lifted for a pinchhitter. Martin used four pitchers to pitch to five batters in the seventh when Bobby Murcer singled in the second run but Hannan got Danny Cater to hit into a inning ending double play.

Bill Freehan doubled and scored Detroit's first run in the seventh on Rodriguez's single. Al Kaline doubled in the eighth and scored the second run on Norm Cash's sacrifice fly.

In other American League action, Skip Lockwood pitched the Milwaukee Brewers to a 4-1 victory over the Chicago White Sox on a 4-hitter. It was Lockwood's show as the Brewers handed the skidding Sox their sixth straight loss.

Baltimore topped Cleveland 6-4 in 10 innings, as Paul Blair and Boog Powell walked with the bases loaded in the 10th, forcing in two runs for the Orioles' sixth win in seven starts.

Baltimore right hander Jim Palmer who hasn't lost to the Indians since Sept. 1, 1966, picked up the victory while retiring 19 of the last 23 batters he faced at Cleveland's municipal stadium.

Joe Rudi and Reggie Jackson laced two-out, run-scoring singles to pull Oakland to a 4-3 comeback victory over Minnesota.

Sandy Alomar drove home the go-ahead run with a two-out single and Jim Fregosi followed with a two-run single, as California bounced California 5-2 in 11 innings.

Downing's First in NL

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Al Downing labored for nine innings to earn his National League pitching credentials. Fran Healy paid his hitting dues with one swing of the bat.

Downing, who pitched for 10 years in the American League before moving to Los Angeles in a pre-season trade, beat St. Louis 2-1 Thursday night in his first start for the Dodgers.

Healy, whose previous exposure in the majors consisted of 10 at-bats for Kansas City two years ago, pinch hit a first-pitch home run—in his first NL trip to the plate—to give the San Francisco Giants a 4-3 10-inning victory over Houston in a day game.

In the only other National League action, the Chicago Cubs downed the San Diego Padres 4-3.

Downing, the little left-hander who has migrated from the Yankees to Oakland to Milwaukee to the Dodgers since December, 1969, picked up his hard-earned first NL victory when Maury Wills' run-scoring single in the ninth inning broke a 1-1 deadlock.

Downing went out for a pinch hitter in the ninth after yielding nine hits. He had gone the distance just two times last season with Oakland and Milwaukee while posting a 5-13 record. In his debut with Los Angeles last week, he hurled scoreless relief for 5 2-3 innings.

Bill Russell, whose fifth inning single knocked in the Dodgers' first run, doubled with one out in the ninth off Reggie Cleveland. After Tom Haller, batting for Downing, drew an intentional walk, Wills sent Russell home with a single to center.

Downing blanked the Cards until the eighth, when they scored on Ted Simmons' two-out single.

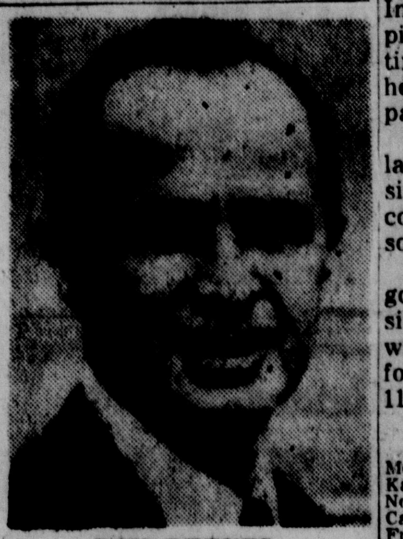
Healy, a 6-foot-5 reserve catcher, pinch hit for reliever Jerry Johnson with one out in the 10th at San Francisco and drilled Jim Ray's first pitch over the right field screen.

It was the second memorable initiation for the 24-year-old rookie, who singled off Denny McLain in his first at-bat for Kansas City in September, 1969. The Giants got him from the Royals last October in exchange for pitcher Bob Garibaldi.

The Giants, who have won four in a row, took a 3-2 lead in the eighth on Bobby Bonds' two-run homer. The Astros tied it in the ninth on a run-scoring single by John Edwards.

Joe Pepitone, who cracked four hits, and Ron Santo each delivered two-run singles, leading the Cubs past San Diego.

Right-hander Bill Hands, 1-2, checked the Padres on eight hits in beating them for the fifth time in as many lifetime decisions.



DAN REEVES

Daniel F. (Dan) Reeves (58) shown in recent photo, the principal owner of the Los Angeles Rams football team, died Thursday of cancer in New York. Reeves, who owned the Rams for 30 years, had been an outpatient at a New York clinic in recent years because of Hodgkin's disease.

Reeves, a native of New York, bought the Rams' franchise in Cleveland in 1941. He moved the club to Los Angeles in 1946 because it was losing money. He was president and chief executive of the club for 30 years.

After a shaky start, the club began to win in Los Angeles and to draw record crowds. In 1957, the Rams and the San Francisco Forty Niners drew 102,368 fans to the Coliseum, the largest crowd in the U.S. up to that time.

Mets Blank Cadets

WEST POINT, N.Y. (UPI—Tommie Agee's three-run homer and the three-hit pitching of three New York hurlers paced the Mets Thursday to an 8-0 exhibition victory over Army.

Agee's blast came in the fourth following walks to Jerry Grote and Dave Marshall. Pinchhitter Art Shamsky laced the Mets' fourth straight win over Army in as many years by lining a two-run blast in the sixth.

Met pitchers Jim McAndrew, Nolan Ryan and Charlie Williams each limited Army to one hit.

Army co captain Tom Pyrz sparked the only Army threat in the sixth when he doubled to left with one out and was wild-pitched to third. Pyrz, a nephew of Cincinnati Red coach Ted Kluszewski, was stranded on third however, as Williams struck out the next two batters.

NYU Drops Basketball

NEW YORK (AP) — New York University's basketball and track teams—all but dead on the court and cinder anyway—have been officially killed as intercollegiate sports by the NYU administration for financial reasons.

"It is hard to justify continuing expenditures in these areas when the pressing needs for general student aid and for academic programs cannot be met," NYU President James M. Hester told a news conference Thursday.

Hester refused to say the elimination of intercollegiate basketball and track next fall was a permanent move, calling the action a curtailment and insisting they could be revived "at a later time when financial conditions improve."

But he acknowledged that no such improvement could be seen in the near future. The university finished the 1969-70 fiscal year with a $4.5 million deficit and forecasts are that the situation will worsen.

'Veterans Night' In NHL Playoffs

By JOE CARNICELLI
UPI Sports Writer

It could well have been called "veterans night" Thursday night as two more Stanley Cup semifinal slots were filled and the other extended to a final deciding game.

Bob Nevin, New York's 33-year-old team captain, scored two goals, the second at 9:07 of sudden death overtime, to give the Rangers a 2-1 victory over Toronto and a semifinal berth. The Rangers captured the best-of-seven series 4-2.

Henri Richard, a 35-year-old veteran of 16 National Hockey League campaigns, scored two goals and Pete Mahovlich added two more as Montreal beat the Boston Bruins 8-3 to even their series at 3-3. The deciding game will be played Sunday in Boston.

Veterans Ted Hampson and Bobby Rousseau and young Lou Nanne scored within four minutes of each other to lift Minnesota to a 5-2 victory over the St. Louis Blues and give the North Stars a 4-2 triumph in the series.

The Rangers will meet the Chicago Black Hawks, who eliminated the Philadelphia Flyers in four straight games, and Minnesota will face the Boston-Montreal winner in semifinal play.

Nevin gave New York a 1-0 lead in the second period when he slapped in a rebound on a three-man breakaway and supplied the crusher in the overtime when he broke in on goalie Jacques Plante and slammed the puck into the left side of the net.

Defenseman Jim McKenny of the Leafs, who had been trapped on the first Ranger goal, tied the score when he produced an unassisted goal with only 2:34 remaining in the game.

"The puck bounced off the boards and we came down and had a two-on-one," said Nevin, a former Maple Leaf. "I skated in on Plante and he played me to pass it. But I shot and it wound up in the net. I wasn't sure it was a goal until the red light went on."

The two goals were particularly sweet for Nevin, who lives in Toronto. "The fact that I'm from Toronto, my family is here and I spend all my summers here made it a real enjoyable moment for me".

"The goaltender (Ed Giacomin) played a tremendous game," said New York Coach Emile Francis. "Toronto came out firing and he made some key saves. This year we went into the playoffs healthy, unlike last year. I think Chicago has much the same type of hockey club we have and it's going to be a knock down, drag out affair. It will be a long series and I think we'll win it all."

The victory marked the first time the Rangers have advanced into the semifinals since 1950.

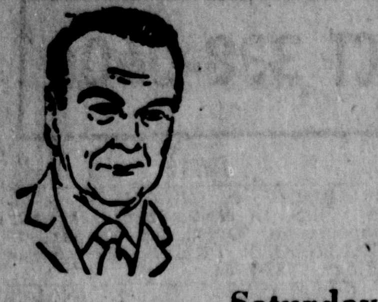
Your Horoscope



Saturday, April 17

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A good day to use all possible self-control. Highly argumentative configurations are in effect that require a considerable amount of caution and feeling others out to find their true position before making a point of asking for what you feel you should have. If you are careful you will avoid danger or accidents possible otherwise.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) If you fail to observe the laws that apply to you, you find you can get into much trouble with higher-ups. Gain your worldly aims without resorting to arguments and forcefulness. Use right kind of diplomacy.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Although you want to run away from boring tasks, you find they later cause you much trouble and loss of money. Investigate your pet projects carefully and see where to make improvements. Being controlled at all times is wise.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You have doubts about one who is valuable to you, but your intuitions may be wrong, so do not act harshly. Don't try to get out of some responsibility that could cause you much woe if not properly handled.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Make sure you follow through with promises made to associates, instead of going off on some tangent or other. A problem creeps up that is best handled at a more opportune time, a better day. Stay home tonight.

LEO (July 22 ot Aug. 21) Plan how to get that pile of work behind you without much assistance from a co-worker who is just as busy as you. Don't criticize others. Not a good day to wear your best apparel or it could get ruined in some way.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You have to make your own good time instead of relying on others. Better still, try to do some important work instead. Avoid one who is unreliable.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 ot Oct. 22) You cannot just ignore some problems at home, so approach it in a conscientious and courteous way and all will soon be well again. Don't argue with anyone and you are better liked in the future, too. Firmness but kindness is the key.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Do not do any speeding during day hours. Don't make those plans for the future with close ties until p.m. If you arrange things so you have more security, everything else will improve in your life.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Take cautious action to relieve tensions you have been under, otherwise you could get sick. Make some time tonight for recreation with people you like. Plan worthwhile new activities.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) If you discipline yourself, you find you need not be so demanding — others have resented this somewhat for a long time. You will get better results if you change. Show that you are charming in p.m. and make big strides forward in your career.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Stop daydreaming and be practical, getting a new plan of action well worked out. Start it in p.m. Assist those who are in dire need; this gives you an opportunity to show your talents as well as helping them.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Arguing with a friend who is an expert is foolish and gets you nowhere, so listen carefully instead. Then state your ideas tonight. Help the morale of those in trouble. Being objective is your best bet.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one of those young people who is so self-centered there is little room for fine things to come into this life unless you teach early to be more objective, philosophical and friendly, for nothing alienates people more than a calculating and cold personality, which comes from selfishness. Fine success in professions that are now considered outmoded, but which are still practical and need only a little modernization to make them really profitable.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

UNPLUCKED: (Q.) My eyebrows are dark and thick. They look terrible because my mom won't let me pluck them. What else can I do?--Bushy in Virginia.

(A.) When a girl's eyebrows get wild looking, with too many strays, some plucking is inevitable if they are to be tamed.

Explain this to your mother.

Leave your main brows as they are, thick and natural looking and lovely. But pluck the wild ones over your nose and underneath the thick part.

Use an eyebrow brush daily. Also experiment with a little eye make-up.

This plus the minor plucking should make you much happier about your looks.

GYM JAM: (Q.) I'm not the athletic type. In gym I'm scared we'll have to do something I can't do. Can you help me in any way?—Physical Flop in Minneapolis.

(A.) I believe if you could take a poll you would find boys like yourself all over the United States. This may encourage you to do the best you can with what you have and not to be ashamed because you don't happen to be Olympic material.

Short Acceptances Anyway

NEW YORK (AP — They tried, they really did, to keep Thursday night's Oscar awards show within time bounds and to put a little fun and pace into the thing.

Even so the NBC production seemed to go on and on at a leisurely pace, a long on-camera wait for the viewer to find out who or what won in about six out of 22 categories. What was accomplished this year was short acceptance speeches. One recipient murmured "Thanks" and scurried away so fast the next part of the agenda wasn't ready.

For the home viewer, most of the fun during the early hours was what George C. Scott referred to as a "meat parade"—looking at the stars on exhibition and taking note of what the women were wearing or, in some cases, not wearing. One young actress appeared in immediate danger of slipping out of the top of her gown and another looked as if her satin garment had been glued on, but they were exceptions to the general good taste shown.

The entertainment segments seemed like inserts. There was an amusing Bob Hope monologue—but Hope was sorely missed as the host. There was a tribute to the Beatles in song and dance. There were special tributes to Orson Welles and Ingmar Bergman—and a humanitarian award to Frank Sinatra. There were those undistinguished songs from films sung by top musical talent.

Most moving moment came with the special award to Lillian Gish in recognition of her long distinguished film career. She was given the evening's only spontaneous standing ovation.

The program dawled along with special presentations and the lesser awards for more than two hours—midnight in the East—then speeded up in the final half hour when the three top categories were reached.

Goldie Hawn, opening the envelope, looked for a moment, gasped, then announced that Scott had won for the best performance by an actor. Since Scott had said he would not accept the Oscar because he does not approve of acting competitions, there was a sound of combined laughter and applause from the audience. Then "Patton" came off as the best picture of the year, and won six other awards.

Neither motion picture's Oscar nor television's Emmy shows are very good examples of television production. They have, however, their own special appeal and some suspense. Few viewers would miss them any more than they would miss Hope's Christmas show or the Miss America pageant. They are TV traditions.

Opening lead—♣ K

If today's hand were played a thousand times the odds are that at least 999 North-South pairs would arrive at four spades. Furthermore, the one pair that failed to get there would probably turn out to be someone who had overlooked an ace of a king during the bidding.

The odds also favor the defeat of the contract. Against reasonable defense South has to lose three clubs and a heart because North and South have complete duplication of suit length. There is no place to discard a club from either hand because you need a long-suit card for that.

West opens the king of clubs and South can see his contract is headed for the ash can.

His only chance is to persuade West to play a second club. It would be nice if East would signal his partner to come on, but East produces the three spot.

If South plays the deuce, West is almost sure to shift and wait for two more club tricks. Suppose that South plays the nine.

West is going to wonder just where the deuce is. He will know that East might be sitting with the doubleton three-two or queen-three-two and that a club continuation has has been asked for. The nine spot play will give him a chance to go wrong and even the best players in the world have gone wrong when given a chance.

Hanoi Troops Fleeing After Base Siege Ends

SAIGON (AP) — The siege of Fire Base 6 is over and the North Vietnamese are fleeing after suffering heavy casualties, the commander of South Vietnamese forces in the central highlands declared today.

"Enemy pressure at Fire Base 6 has entirely lifted," said Maj. Gen. Ngo Dzu. He said the North Vietnamese who besieged the hilltop base had withdrawn westward to the area where South Vietnam's borders with Laos and Cambodia meet.

A few hours before Dzu's statement, one of his spokesmen, Capt. Le Van Phuc, said: "The situation at Fire Base 6 is not too good."

There obviously were still North Vietnameee troops around the base, but there was no way to determine how many. U.S. and South Vietnamese helicopters were fired on today as they landed hundreds of fresh Saigon troops in the area.

The North Vietnamese may have been fighting a rear guard action.

The Saigon government claimed that 2,903 North Vietnamese troops have been killed in the region since the base was first attacked March 31. Most of the enemy casualties were credited to U.S. B52 bombers, tactical fighter-bombers and helicopter gunships. But some military sources say the total is substantially less than claimed by the South Vietnamese command. For one thing, only 224 rifles and 73 heavy weapons were reported picked up on the battlefields.

The Saigon headquarters said a total of 195 South Vietnamese troops have been killed, 32 are missing and 442 have been wounded. Field reports said Saigon's casualties were higher than those announced.

Five American advisors also have been killed.

In eastern Cambodia, 200 miles to the south, North Vietnamese forces clashed with South Vietnamese and bombarded them with 400 rounds of mortar and recoilless rifle fire in the fourth day of intensified attacks. Field reports said 74 North Vietnamese and 29 South Vietnamese were killed, three South Vietnamese were missing and 13 were wounded.

FIREBASE 6—BEFORE SIEGE ENDED
(UPI Radiophoto by Dieter Ludwig)

Associated Press photographers Neal Ulevich and Huynh Cong Ut flew into the Fire Base 6 region with the combat assault helicopters. They reported that North Vietnamese troops surrounding the base opened fire with rocket grenades and mortars.

There were no immediate reports of any helicopters being hit or of any ground fighting.

The U.S. Command reported however that an F100 Super Sabre Jet fighter-bomber crashed from unknown causes south of Fire Base 6, and a small observation helicopter was shot down in eastern Cambodia. All of the American crewmen were rescued.

Two of the four South Vietnamese infantry battalions inside and immediately around Fire Base 6 were flown out Thursday. The remaining two battalions were lifted out today and two fresh battalions replaced them.

A third battalion of reserve paratroopers was flown into a landing zone just outside the base to join the hunt for the enemy troops menacing the hilltop outpost near the triborder juncture of South Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos.

Ping Pongers Impressed by Shanghai Stores

SHANGHAI (UPI)—Members of the visiting American Table Tennis Team went shopping in Shanghai today and spent their own money despite a "gracious" offer by their China hosts to provide them with funds.

The group bought so much at a special department store for tourists that they had to invest in extra luggage to carry it. The 15-member group goes on to Canton today, then crosses to the British Crown Colony of Hong Kong Saturday, where they started their trip into Communist China April 10.

In Thursday night's tennis table exhibition, the American women won two out of three matches but the men dropped three of their five matches. In three matches for veterans — players over 40 —the Chinese won two.

Mrs. Geraldine Resek of New York City, wife of one of the players, said the department store was "very modern, almost like one you'd find back in the States. They had everything you would find in a state-side store."

She said "I was surprised at how stylish the clothing was," and added: "Almost all of the team members bought suitcases. De needed them to carry all the things we have bought or acquired while in China."

Their hosts offered the team spending money for the shopping tour, but although they described the offer as "gracious" the team members turned it down. Similar offers were made to several other table tennis teams touring the country, they said, and some of the Canadians accepted.

Mrs. Resek said the department store they visited was "sort of a special store for tourists." She said "I might add there were no Chinese shopping there."

Mitchell Defends FBI

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Attorney General John N. Mitchell said Thursday FBI agents monitored an Earth Day rally in Washington last year at which Sen. Edmund S. Muskie spoke in an effort to prevent "violent interference" with peaceful demonstrators.

Mitchell issued a statement defending the FBI against Muskie's charges the investigative agency spied on Earth Day anti-pollution rallies throughout the country last spring. The Maine Democrat said Wednesday Congress should create an independent board to monitor all government intelligence-gathering activities.

Mitchell said charges the FBI was conducting surveillance of political activity of U.S. senators and tapping the telephones of congressmen were "false."

"The FBI has no interest with an Earth Day meeting as such," Mitchell said, "but it does have a most legitimate interest in the activities of persons whose known records reveal a likelihood of violence, incitement to riot or other criminal behavior."
